

The Only Men's Shoes You Need to Buy This Spring

Montco-based men's footwear brand Cobble & Hyde just debuted its sophomore line, the Bloomsbury Collection. It includes handmade monk-straps, boots and oxfords, all of which ring in under $250. Our pick: the Stanhope double monkstraps. Cobbleandhyde.com.

2

Boho Baubles Go Luxe

Bohemian jewelry often comes in the form of hemp bracelets and peace-sign pendants, but not so with Joie DiGiovanni's Bala Cynwyd-based line of refined pearl-dotted lariats, knotted necklaces and gemstone drop earrings. Find 'em online and at Delsette boutique in Ardmore. Joiedigiovanni.com.

THE HIPPEST POP-UP TO HIT WALNUT STREET

Mark your calendar. After successful pop-ups around the city, Bella Vista-based e-shop Yowie brings its quirky homewares (speckled ceramics, glacier-esque bookends) to Rittenhouse's Ubiq from April 5th through 30th. 1509 Walnut Street.

4

Shopping Shakeups

Chestnut Hill's Style Camp rings in April with a new, larger location at 9 West Highland Avenue, just around the corner from its former Germantown Avenue digs. • This spring, Old City welcomes Massachusetts-born womens-wear boutique Rennes, which will stock simple, French-inspired pieces (135 North 3rd Street). • In Midtown Village, LashBee has taken over Anju Thread's former spot and now offers waxing in addition to its signature lash extensions (1126 Walnut Street). • Meanwhile, Knit Wit has shuttered its Chestnut Street shop. But don't fret; they're looking for a new location.

5

Your New Gift Wrap Go-To (Sorry, CVS)

Up your gift-giving game with Printfresh's new lineup of whimsical wrapping sheets, colorful hand-spun yarn and gilded greeting cards. Stay tuned: Founder Amy Voloshin (an alum of Free People and Urban Outfitters) plans to debut a full line for the Kensington-based brand next month. Printfresh.com.

